Subject: Willamette river superfund site cleanup

EPA representative,

I am writing to urge the epa not let nw natural and the port of Portland of the hook by lessening the clean up of the superfund site on the willamette river. I am aware of the recent study that has prompted the proposed changes. I have an issue of National Geographic from the 70's that I celebrating the revival of the willamette. A river from which it is still advisable to not eat fish from. Whatever study's come out the issue will remain that the river is unhealthy. A clean river would be a major benefit the the areas economy moving forward. With that in mind I feel the jobs cleaning up the river should be given to those populations most heavily impacted by the pollution. Which of course given the history of the area would be the poor, native peoples and people of color.

Thanx for your time
